MANCHESTER MAN SENTENCED TO 135 MONTHS
FOR 5 STORE AND BANK ROBBERIES

CONCORD, NEW HAMPSHIRE: United States Attorney Tom Colantuono, FBI Special Agent in Charge of the Boston Field Office Kenneth W. Kaiser, and Manchester Police Department Chief John Jaskolka, today announced that Candido David Logan, 39, of Manchester, was sentenced yesterday in the United States District Court for the District of New Hampshire to 135 months in federal prison after he pleaded guilty to five counts of robbery. Logan was also sentenced to three years of supervised release after he is released from prison. During the period of supervised release, the United States Probation Office will monitor Logan's behavior.

On December 1, 2004, a New Hampshire grand jury charged Logan with five robberies that took place in Manchester: the September 28, 2000 robbery of Vista Foods on Wilson Street, the October 31, 2000 robbery of the Fleet Bank on Massabesic Street, the May 11, 2004 robbery of the Store 24 on Maple Street, the May 12, 2004 robbery of the Citizens Bank on Wilson Street, and the July 27, 2004 robbery of a New Hampshire Liquor Store on Lincoln Street. He pled guilty to the charges on April 18, 2005.

The Federal Bureau of Investigation and the Manchester Police Department participated in the investigation and apprehension of Logan. U.S. Attorney Colantuono expressed his appreciation for the cooperative effort between these agencies in locating and capturing the defendant and stated, "The exemplary work of the Manchester Police and the FBI resulted in the apprehension and successful prosecution of this defendant. By working as a team, our state and federal law enforcement agencies were able to remove this repeat offender from the streets."

The case was investigated by the Manchester Police Department and the FBI. It was prosecuted by Criminal Chief Don Feith.
